

D.O. Valdepeñas Viña Albali Crianza

Inspired by the starry clear night, Félix Solís wanted to create a wine that reflects the joyful and lively spirit of the Spaniards. He named this wine Albali, after a star in the constellation Wassermann.

Viña Albali Crianza is made exclusively from Tempranillo grapes and is aged longer than usual for Crianza.

Regionen

The name Valdepeñas comes from the city of the same name from antiquity, located in a sun-drenched river valley, dotted with small rock formations - Val de peñas (Valley of the Rocks). Located south of Castile-La Mancha in central Spain, this region is completely enclosed by the Denominations of Origin La Mancha D.O. and borders the south with Andalusia. The climate is dominated by extremes, with temperatures up to 40°C in summer and down to -10°C in winter. The future of this denomination of origin lies in the hands of the red wines made from Tempranillo grapes, which are well suited for aging, from which the magnificent Crianzas, Reservas and Gran Reservas emerge.

Verkostungsnotizen

Intensive ruby red with deep and complex aromas of ripe red berries, oak and spices. Pleasant and soft on the palate with a good tannin content and a long finish.

Speiseempfehlung

Wonderful with lamb and perfect with tapas.

Technische Information

The fermentation is carried out at controlled temperatures to achieve elegant tannins and the typical aromas of red fruits. The wine is aged for 6 months in barrels of American oak and then for 2 to 3 years in the bottle. Much longer than for wines with Crianza status.
