

D.O. Valdepeñas Viña Albali Reserva

Inspired by the starry night, Félix Solís wanted to create a wine that reflects the joyful and lively spirit of the Spaniard. He named this wine Albali, after a star in the constellation of Aquarius.

Viña Albali Reserva is made from a special selection of the best Tempranillo grapes from old vineyards with a small production volume. After a long maturation in oak barrels, the wines of this variety have intensive, ruby-red aromas of red fruits and a hint of vanilla and herbs.

Regionen

The name Valdepeñas comes from the eponymous city from antiquity, which is located in a sun-drenched river valley, dotted with small rock formations – Val de peñas (Valley of the Rocks). Located south of Castile-La Mancha in central Spain. The climate is dominated by extremes, with temperatures ranging from 40°C in summer to -10°C in winter. The future of this origin designation is fixed in the hands of the producers of Tempranillo grapes, who produce red wines that are suitable for aging, from which the magnificent Crianzas, Reservas and Gran Reservas are produced.

Verkostungsnotizen

Glossy red color. Powerful, long-lasting aroma of vanilla, chocolate, herbs and jam-like fruit. On the palate, full-bodied, complex and elegant, with well-structured tannins and a long, soft finish.

Speiseempfehlung

A versatile wine, perfect for grilled meat, poultry, wild and Manchego cheese.

Technische Information

Thanks to a careful maceration, the expressive tannins come to the fore. After fermentation at controlled temperature, the wine matures for 12 months in barrels of American oak. It then remains in the bottle for two or three years to ensure that the ripening process is complete.
