

D.O. Valdepeñas Viña Albali Tempranillo

Inspired by the starry night, Félix Solís wanted to create a wine that reflects the joyful and lively spirit of the Spaniards. He named this wine Albali, after a star in the constellation of Aquarius.

For Viña Albali Tempranillo, the optimal combination of tannins and fruitiness is achieved, so that the natural flavor and aromas are preserved. It proves that fruitfulness can also have a body.

Regionen

The name Valdepeñas comes from the eponymous city of antiquity, located in a sun-drenched valley, dotted with small rock formations - Val de peñas (Valley of Rocks). Located south of Castile-La Mancha in central Spain, this region is almost completely enclosed by the production areas of the denomination of origin La Mancha D.O. and borders the south with Andalusia. The climate is dominated by extremes, with temperatures up to 40°C in summer and down to -10°C in winter. The future of this denomination of origin lies in the hands of the red wines made from Tempranillo grapes, which are well suited for aging, from the excellent Crianzas, Reservas and Gran Reservas.

Verkostungsnotizen

The bouquet reminds of red berries, violets and light roast aromas with intense flavors of dark fruits, like black raspberries. On the palate soft, with ripe tannins.

Speiseempfehlung

Soft and fruity, ideal for tapas and modern kitchen as well as accompaniment to all types of meat and mature cheese.

Technische Information

The grapes are carefully harvested and fermented at controlled temperature (22-24 °C) in tanks. The feeling of volume and sweet tannins is achieved through malolactic fermentation in American oak barrels as well as the subsequent ripening process of 2 months. This is a young wine, which is aged for a short time in oak barrels.
