Technical Information

The object of the coupage is to obtain a different and special wine, using the Tempranillo and Syrah varieties of the Spanish viticultural origins, which provide their own particularities.

The grapes come from old vines and are collected manually. The vinifications are made in stainless steel tanks for 10-14 days with controlled temperatures of 26-28°C. The wine remains in American oak barrels for 3-4 months until the end of the malolactic fermentation. After determining the mixture and the wines are assembled.

Tasting Notes

This sweet wine has been carefully elaborated from Muscat grape varieties. It features an appealing straw-yellow color and a light palate with hints of summer fruits. The finish is pleasant and fresh. It is recommended to be very cold when served.

Food Pairing

It goes well with soft cheeses such as brie or fresh cheeses. It also goes well with pasta, salads and white fish.

Technical Information

This wine is made from Moscatel grapes, harvested at the optimum point of ripeness. The grapes are then subjected to a long, cold maceration process, during which the stems are removed, for a period of 10-12 hours. This is followed by fermentation at low temperatures, a process which is intended to preserve the varietal aromas. The wine is then aged on fine lees, a technique which adds both volume and complexity to the palate.

Technical Information

The goal was to create a distinctive style of wine by harnessing the qualities of three different but complementary grape varieties from several notable winegrowing regions in Spain. Fermentations take place in stainless steel tanks over 20-25 days at maximum temperatures of 15°C. Once the vinification process is complete, the wine is left on its lees at low temperature for 2-3 months to develop secondary flavour characteristics. In the case of Chardonnay, the wine remains in French oak barrels for 3 months, with batonnage (stirring the lees) occurring several times a week.

Food Pairing

Technical Information

This wine is made from Garnacha and Tempranillo grape varieties. These are carefully monitored to ensure perfect maturity while limiting the concentration of anthocyanins in order to obtain a pale-colored Rosé. This also allows for juices with good acidity and freshness, perfect for this wine style. Each variety is treated separately, with a limited maceration of just 2-3 hours, followed by very soft pressing and static draining to obtain very clean musts. The fermentations take place at very low temperature, similar to white wines, at around 12-14 °C, with extended lees contact for 3-4 months before assembly and bottling.
