Technical Information

This wine is the result of a meticulous process, blending the freshness of Sauvignon Blanc, Verdejo and Chardonnay with the elegance of Albariño. Whilst the Chardonnay is aged in American oak, the Albariño is divided into two highly expressive ageing processes: one part is aged in French and chestnut oak barrels for 4 months to develop structure, and the other is aged on lees in concrete tanks for 4–5 months to enhance its minerality and sweetness on the palate. The result is a complex and unctuous white wine, where the purity of the fruit is enhanced by the blend with fine woods and materials.
